¶ Tunstall.

And for so much that the making of the said corporacion is meritorius and very good for the comon welth of this your realme, it is therefore expedient & necessarie to provide, that no person of the said politike bodie and cominalty aforesaid, be suffered to exercise & practise phisike, but onely those persons that be profound sadde, & discrete, groundly lerned, & depely studied in phisike. In consideracion wherof, and for the further auctorising of ỳ same letters patētes and also enlarging of further artycles for the said common welth to be had and made: pleaseth it your highnes. &c. to enact &c. that the saide corporacion of the said cominaltie and felowship of the faculte of phisike aforesaid, and all and euery graunt, article, and other thing conteyned & specified in the saide letters patentes be approued, graunted, ratified, and confirmed in thys present parlament, and clerely authorised and admitted by the same, good, lawful, and auailable to your saide bodie corporate, and their successours for euer, in as ample & large maner as may be taken, thought, and construed by ỳ same. And ỳ it please your highnes. &c. further ly to enact. &c. that the fire persōs beforesaid, in your said moste gracious letters patents named as principalles, and first named of the said cominaltie and felowship, chosing to them two moe of the said cominaltie from hencefoward, be called and cleped elects. And ỳ the same electes yerely chose one of them to be president of the said cominaltie, & as oft as any of the roumes & place of ỳ same electes shal fortune to be voide, by death or otherwise, thā the superuinous of ỳ same elects (within .xxx. or .xl. daies next after the death of thē or any of them) shall chose, name, & admit one or mo. as nede shal require of the moste cunning, & expert men, of & in ỳ said faculty in London, to supplie ỳ said rowme & nūbre of eight persons. So ỳ he or they that shall bee so chosen, be first by ỳ said superuisors straitly examined, after a forme deuised by the said electes, and also by the same superuisours approued. And where ỳ in dioceses of Englande out of London it is not light to finde alway men able sufficiētly to examine (after the statute) such as shall be admitted to exercise phisike in them: ỳ it may be enacted in this present parlament, that no person frō hēcefoth be suffred to exercise or practise in phisike through England, vntil such time ỳ he be examined at London by the said president and three of the said electes: and to haue from ỳ said president or electes letters testimonials of their approuing and examinacion except he be a graduate of Orford or Camebridge, which hath accomplished all thing for his forme without any grace. 2 ¶ Where as most instãt suit hath bene made to your most excellẽt maiestly on the behalf of the most noble, and most victorious prince Charles Emperour of Rome. &c. for mariage to be had betweneyour highnes, and his only sonne & heire, ȳ noble prince Philip of Spain. &c. Wherupon to the pleasure of almighty god, to the cõfort of your most noble parson, & to the great & singular honor, welth, benefite, & commodityes of thys your realm of Englãd, and of al vs, your most humble and obedient subiectes of thsame, there hath passed & bene cõcluded

ened in two sodry treatises certain pactes and couenantes, touching ỹ sayde mariage with dependaunces and circumstances of thesame, and in the one treaty these articles. First it is couenaunted and agreed, that as sone as cõueniently may be, true and parfit mariage by wordes of the tyme present shalbe contracted, solemnized, and consummate in Englande betwene the sayd most noble prince, & the said most vertuous Lady the Quene. By force of which mariage so celebrated and consummate, the sayde most noble prynce Philip, shal, duryng the sayd mariage, haue and inioy ioyntly together with the said most gracious Quene his wife, the style, honour, and kingly name of the realmes and dominions vnto the sayde most noble Quene appertaynyng, and shall ayde her highnes beyng his wyfe in the happy admynistracion of her graces realms and dominyons. The rightes, lawes, priuileges, and customes of thesame realmes and dominyons, beyng nevertheless preserued and mayntayned. And specially it is prouided and couenaunted, that the sayd most noble prince shal parmit and suffer the sayd most gracious Quene his wife to haue the whole disposicion of al ỹ benefices and offices, landes, reuenues, and fruites of the sayd realms and dominions, and that thei shalbe bestowed vpon such, as be naturally borne in thesame. And that all the matters of the saide realmes and dominions shalbe treated and mained in thesame tonges, wherein of olde they haue bene wont to be treated, & by ỹ natural born of ỹ same realms. It is also couenaunted, that thesame most noble Quene by vertue of the forsayd matrimony shalbe admytted into the societie of the realmes and dominions of the sayde noble prince, aswell such as he hath nowe presently, as such other also, as during ỹ same matrimony, maye come herafter vnto hi. And for her dower in case ỹ her highnes ouerliue ỹ said mosts noble prince her husbande, she shal yerely receiue threscore thousãd poundes, after ỹ value of .xl. grotes Flemish money ỹ pound, thesame to be allotted & appointed vppon all the realmes, landes, and primonial dominions of the sayd most victorious lord Themperour his father, in maner and forme folowyng. That is to say, fourty thousand poundes shalbe assigned vpon the realmes of Spain Castile, and Arragon, & their appertenances in best maner that may be, and according to the fashion, vlage, and custom of the saide realmes: So as if the sayde noble prynce dwe dye before her highnes, & by reason therof the sayd dower come in vse, & take effect, ỹ saide most gracious Quene shall, and maye freely, without any impediment, haue, vse, and enioy the sayde fourty thousande poundes, as is aforesayd. The other twẽty thousand poundes shalbe appointed vnto her highnes vppon the Dukedome, Earledomes, and dominiõs of Brabant, Flaunders, Heynold, Hollãd, and other the primonial landes and inheritaunce of the said lord Themperour in the lower Germanye, in lyke maner, as the Lady Margarete of Englande, sometyme wyfe and wydowe of the Lorde Charles, of laudable memorye Duke of Burgundy had, and receyued vppon thesame, so as ỹ sayd most noble Quene suruiuyng her sayde husbande, shall immediately after his death, vse, enioy, and possesse her sayde dower so farreforth, as no parte thereof be alienated or obligyed to others. And in case any part thereof be founde alienate or bounde to others, other landes or reuenues of lyke value, lying nyer to the residue of the sayde dower, shalbe in due forme assigned in lieu thereof wiin the space of three monethes, monethes, whych her hyghnes shall vse and inioy in lyke maner and fourme, as the sayd Lady Margaret of England before vsed and inioyed. And lest that amongs their children there myght aryse some strife for the succession, and therby disturbe the fruite of perpetuall concorde, that is hoped shal ensue of this matrimony betwene the realmes and dompnions of eyther partye, the sayd succession shalbe ordered in maner and fourme folowyng.

But yf it fortune the same Lord Charles to dye, and the yssue of hys body to fayle: then, and in that case the eldest sonne of thys matrimonye shalbe admitted vnto the sayd ryght, and according to ỳ nature, lawes, and customes of ỳ sayd realmes and dominions shall succede. The same eldest sonne shal also succede in all the Dukedomes, Earledomes, Dominiōs, & Patrimonial landes belongyng vnto the said Lord Themperour, as wel in Burgundye, as in the lower Germany. That is to say, in the Dukedomes of Brabant, Lurenborghe, Gheldres, Zutphane, Burgundye, Fryseland, in the countyes of Flāders, Arthoys, Holland, Zeland, Namures, the lande beyonde the Isles, & in al other, whatsoeuer thereunto belongyng, or any ways appartaynyng, with all theyr ryghtes and demaundes. But yf the sayde Lorde Charles, or they that shall come of hym, shal remayn on line, and ỳ there be by thys matrimony any male chylde, in that case the sayde Lorde Charles, or hys descendentes shalbe, and remayne excluded from the sayd landes and primonyall dominyons of the lower Germany, and of Burgundy, and thesame with all their ryght shall dyscende vnto the eldest sonne to be borne of thys matrimony. And to the other children that shal be borne of the sayd matrimony aswel males as females, a conuenient portiō and dower shall be allotted in the realms of England and dominions, dependyng of the same, and in the sayde landes and primonyall dominions of the lower Germany. And neither the eldest sonne of this matrimony, nor the other sonnes begotten in the same, shal pretend any right in the realm of Spayne, or thother dompnions depēding of ỳ same, & reserued to the sayd lorde Charles the infant, otherwise then by their fathers or graundfathers disposicio shalbe geuen or left vnto them. Moreouer if it fortune no male child to be borne of this matrimony, but onely females, in that case the eldest female shall full right succede in the sayd landes and dominions of the lower Germany, so as neuertheles she being minded to chose to husbande any manne not borne in Englande, or in the lower Germany, she owe contracte the same matrimonye nby the counsell and consente of the sayde Lorde Charles the infaunt her brother, or elles yf she take any manne to husbande, that is not born in England, or in the lower Germany, neglectyng the counsell and consent of the sayde Lorde Charles, in that case the ryght of the succession shall be and remayne to the saide lord Charles the infaunt in the sayde dominyons of lower Germany, Burgundye, and theyr appertynaunces, whiche in the case aforesayde shall reuerte vnto hym, or his issue, as wel males as females. And yet neuertheless in that case bothe she and the other doughters also descendyng of thys matrimony (no male children remaynyng) shall be endowed of their fathers landes and possessions, as well of Spaine, as of lower Germany, competently, and according to the customes of the sayde realmes & dominions. And for want also of the sayde Lorde Charles, and the issue of hym, and none other chyldren remaynyng of this matrimony but women, in that case the eldeste doughter to be borne of this matrymonye, shal succede not onely in the sayde dominions of lower Germany and Burgundy, but also in the other realmes of Spayn, England, and the rest after the nature, lawes, and customes of the same. Prouyded neuertheless, and expressly reserued in all and syngular the aboue declared cases of succession, that whatsoeuer he or she be, that shal succede in them, they shall leaue to euery of the sayd realmes, landes, and dominios whole, & entier their priuileges, rights and customes, and the same realmes and dominions shall administer, & cause to be administred by the natural borne of the same realmes, dominions, and landes, & in all thynges faithfully procure their vtilitie and quiete, and shall rule and nourishe them in good iustyce and peace, according to their statutes & customes. This act is continued. An. 28. H. 8. ca. 6. An. 31. H. 8. ca. 7. & an. 33. H. 8. ca. 17. And after. an. 1. E. 6. cap. 3. it was repelled by generall wordes. And after. an. 3. E. 6. ca. 16. it was reuiued and made perpetual. And after. An. 2. & 3. P. & M. cap. 5. it is cõfirmed.

3 ¶ In. 27. H. 8. ca. 25. an acte was made for punishment of vacabonds and relief of the pore, and for collections for them, to endure to the laste day of the next parlement and than it expired.

4 ¶ In. 1. E. 6. cap. 3. an acte was made for punishement of vacabõdes and relief of the pore and impotent persons. And by that statute al statutes before made for the punishmẽt of vacabondes and sturdy beggers and all articles compryzed in ỹ same were repelled. And after. An. 3. E. 6. cap. 16. thys acte of. 1. E. 6. cap. 3. was repelled as appeareth nert following.

5 ¶ The statute made in the firste yere of the kynges hyghnesse most noble raygne (ca. 3. before. 4.) concernyng pole personnes and and vacabondes in certain cases, to be made slaues and so forth, and all and euery article, matter, prouiso, braunche and sentence therin conteined, shalbe from henceforth vtterly repealed, made frustrate, voyde and of none effect. And ẏ the statute concerning how aged and impotent persõs should be ordred for their better relief, and how vacabondes and strong beggars should be punished, made in the .xxii. yere of ẏ late king of most famouse memory king Henry the eight (ca. 12. before. 2.) and euery matter, article, prouiso, braunche & sentence therin conteined, to be frõ henceforth reuiued, made good and stande in full strength and vertue, and shall continue and remaine a perfect act of parlement for euer.

And be it &c. that al iustices of peace and euery of them within the limits of their commission, and the maiers shirifes, baillifs, and other officers within their seuerall rules and offices, shal within their seuerall limits assemble together, and make their seuerall diuision, according to the purport and effect of thys act, at the nert general quarter sessions of the peas to be holden after the feaste of Easter nert to come, for the due spedy and diligent execucion of the same act. And that if any such aged or impotent person after the feast of Easter nert to come shall offend cõtrary to this statute, that then the same offendour shal be vsed and punished, as in the same statute of the .xxii. of king Henry the eight, is prouided. And that before the feast of Easter no punishemẽt shal be put in execuciõ against any such impotent lame and aged person, but only by ẏ discrecion of the nert iustice of peas of the same shire where such offender shall be apprehended, any thing in ẏ said act to the contrary not withstãding. And for thauoiding of the idle loytering of common labourers of husbandry within this realm: Be it. &c. that such common labourers being persons able in body, vsing lattering and refusing to worke, for such reasonable wages as is moste comenly giuen in the parties where such persons shall dwell, shal be for euery such times as he or they refuse to labour hauing, resonable wages as is aforesaid, adiudged vacabonds and shalbe punished as strong and mighty vacabondes in such maner and fourme, as is declared in ẏ sayd act of .xxii. Non mutet assisa siue pondus panis nisi per ser denarios crescentes vel decrescẽtes, vt in bendicione quarterii. Pistor si inueniatur panis suus de quadrãte in defecte ponderis duorum solidorum et ser denariorum vel infra, amercietur. Et si numerum illum excedat, subeat iudicium pillorie): et non remittatur iudicium delinquẽti pro auro neque argento. Et quilibet pistor habeat signum suum proprium panum suorum. Tolnetum ad molendinum secundum consuetudinem regni, et secundum fortitudinem cursus aque, capiatur vel ad vicesimum granum, vel ad vicesimum quartum granum. Et mensura, per quam tolnetum capi debeat, sit concordãs mensure domini regis: et capiatur tolnetum per rasum, et nihil cumulo vel cantello. Et si firmarii inueniant molendinarijs necessaria sua, nihil capient preter debitum tolnetum. Et si aliter fecerint, grauiter puntantur. Assisa seruisie secundum bendicionem bladi, de quo sit brasium, statueture, proclametur, et obseruetur. Et brasiator non accrescat plus in galona, nisi per ser denarios accrescentes in quarterio brasie. Et si assisam fregerit, primo, secundo, et tercio amercietur, quarto sine redemptione subeat iudicium pillorie. Standardum busselli, galone, et bine sigillo domini regis ferreo signentur diligenter, et saluo custodiantur sub pena centum librarum. Et nulla mensura fiat in villa, nisi mensura domini regis concordet, et signo communitatis ville sit signata. Si quis emat vel vendat per mensuras non signatas et per maiorem vel balliuos non eraminatas, grauiter amercietur. Et omnes mensure cuiuscunque ville maiores et minores bis in anno videantur, et diligenter eraminentur. Si quis autem conuictus fuerit, cũ duplici mensura, scilicet maiore ad emendũ et minore ad vendendũ tanquam falsarius incarceretur, et grauiter puniatur. Standardum bussellí et bine sint sub custodia maioris et balliuorum, et ser legalium de villa iuratorum coram quibus omnes mensure signentur.
